

why would you want to put K-love off the air. It is the only station of its kind in the area. K-love encourages me and gives my family and me wholesome entertainment that we don't have to worry about our kids listening to. Besides that it's not in competition with other stations because they don't sell advertising. If you do take K-love off the air your probably going to have thousands of people boycott ALL OTHER radio stations and just think what that would do to advertising revenues. I'm sure thats not what the government or the other stations want.
